[words excised] Time has now come when frank and urgent exchange of views is required, so that we may know at least where each of us stands on question. There is every indication GDR plans make major issue of this occasion and juxtaposition with larger East-West confrontation over Berlin gives much increased importance to nature our response, which will receive attention out of proportion importance incident itself. FYI Department most reluctant consider unilateral action, such as US vote on TTD issuances for brief period, because of effect on general tripartite cooperation. However, effect of failure of West including US make any response GDR harassment could well be worse.

FOR BONN: You should approach FEDREP at sufficiently high level to leave no doubt US seriousness. Drawing on above argumentation and appropriate sections Berlin reftel point out length of time passed since it was realised Kirchentag would cause trouble and since this question first discussed with FEDREP. Inquire precisely what action FEDREP intends take if various specific forms harassment occur. Since Allies bear important share responsibility for retaliation we have every right inquire FEDREP intentions. State US believes firm Western response essential, and FEDREP as one of four Western Powers most closely concerned will be key element. We suggest some type limited economic countermeasure but form German participation up to FEDREP. What does FEDREP propose? Given probable need secure NATO cooperation, four powers should have position prepared by July 11 at latest.

FOR LONDON: You should approach Foreign Office at similar level. Inquire decision on US proposal for semi-automatic TTD ban. We have pressed this for many weeks and now time approaches requiring action. If no decision yet reached, urge its expedition so that joint plan can be ready July 11. Impres on Foreign Office that scope of ban less important than prior agreement on some degree ban to be swiftly applied.

FOR PARIS: While French have supported TTD ban
